Strongly Agree, Agree, Disagree, Strongly Disagree

All families have dreams for their children and want the best for them

All families have the capacity to support their children's learning

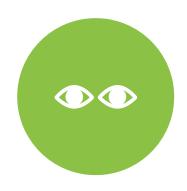

Families and school staff are equal partners

The responsibility for cultivating and sustaining partnerships among school, home, and community rests primarily with school staff, especially school leaders

What is the building administrator's role in establishing strong family engagement practices?

VISION

Family Engagement in Highline Public Schools means trusting relationships, open communication, and opportunities for families and schools to partner in their students' learning.

Trusting Relationships: Family engagement is about families and schools developing a deep, meaningful relationship that supports student learning, not just events.

Open Communication: Family engagement means timely, open, two-way communication utilizing platforms such as phone calls, emails, in-person meetings, online portals, newsletters and more.

Families & School Partnerships: Strong partnerships mean families and schools respectfully work together to identify meaningful opportunities for families to support students at home and at school.

Theory of Action

If we

Develop the capacity of school and district staff around family engagement best practices

And honor the expertise of our families while providing them with critical information about the school system

And schools create the space for families to authentically partner

Then

Staff and families will cultivate relationships built on mutual trust

And then

Staff will implement strong family engagement practices in partnership with families

Theory of Action Continued

So that

Families and staff are working together to support students' academic success.

Community Partnerships

Highline Public Schools values strong community partnerships. We cannot do this work alone. We are better when students, families, community and educators work hand-in-hand.
